STUDY WITH RABBI LIMMER

*Let Us Declare the Sacred and Awesome
Power of this Prayer*

Unpacking Unetaneh Tokef:
Sources and Symbolism in the Great Liturgy of our High Holy Days

The Book of Life.... the numbering of our days... Who shall live and who shall die... repentance, prayer and charity... these are not only the unifying themes of our Days of Awe, but also are bound together in a single piece of prayer, the Unetaneh Tokef. On Yom Kippur afternoon, Wednesday, September 19 at 1:30 p.m. in the social hall, we will study the rabbinic texts from Talmud and Midrash that lay the spiritual framework for this lasting liturgy, and explore how this prayer that teaches how to "alter human destiny" can help each of us reorient our lives in the best of directions for the New Year.

SINAI

FROM RABBIS LIMMER, GREENE & ZINN

*“Just as the hand, held before the eye, can hide the tallest mountain,
so the routine of everyday life can keep us from seeing the vast radiance and secret wonders that fill the world.”*

Our High Holy Days approach, in all their awe and splendor, to have us pull away our hands from our eyes and appreciate the wonder and joy that fill our world. Our season of renewal is designed to help us examine our lives in all their depth, and see ourselves again as all that we can be.

As we turn to welcome this New Year, 5779, we know that the many gifts we are given bring with them not only the hope and promise of a new season, but also the obligation to confront our shortcomings, so that we will be able to make the most out of the life we are given. Between last Yom Kippur and our upcoming Rosh HaShanah, our thoughts have often roamed far from our meditations in the sanctuary; likewise, our actions have not lived up to the high promises we made to ourselves when this year began. And so, months in advance, we begin preparing for the High Holy Days. This summer season is meant to be one of t’shuvah—our process of turning towards our better selves—so that, when we hear the Shofar sound on Rosh HaShanah, we are ready to meet the new year with a plan for making the most out of 5779.

As your rabbis, we prepare for the New Year not only through t’shuvah, but also by attending to all the details of meaningful services and celebrations. Certainly for us, this season brings with it incredible excitement and emotion. We cannot wait to share that sense of joy that with you all on the eve of Rosh HaShanah, whether at Sinai or at our home away from home, Fourth Presbyterian Church. Likewise, we await the opportunity to confront ourselves and our futures together with the greatest of sincerity when we gather on Yom Kippur.

This way of being more united as a community is just one reason why we who are so honored to serve as your Rabbis, look forward to welcoming 5779 with you all. Our music will be superb, as always, under the direction of Scott Kumer, who is putting his own touches to our inspiring repertoire. All three of us, together with Fern Katz, will be working to make sure our children and their families are ready to appreciate the wonder of this season. Rebecca Frazin will be working with a dedicated band of volunteers to insure that all feel welcome, appreciated, and connected with the community. And, of course, everything both at Sinai and Fourth Church will be as wonderful as always, thanks to the efforts of the Sinai staff, led by Susan Solomon.

We look forward to spending time with you these coming High Holy Days, and hope to find some personal moments around the meaningful communal ceremonies we will share. We wish you and your dear ones a year of good health and happiness, and hope you join us in making 5779 a year in which we are all able to look honestly at the wide world around us, and—as individuals and as a community—are able to reorient our lives towards greater personal purpose even as together we fashion our larger society into the world we want it to be.

If not, please consider becoming a sustainer of Sinai. Being a Sustaining Member of Sinai allows our congregation to fulfill our mission of bringing a vital, engaging and inclusive Reform Judaism to the City of Chicago. We rely on the generosity of our members who are able to support our temple at this sustaining level in order to offer the many programs, events and classes that otherwise would not be covered by what we receive annually through dues. Sustaining Members are recognized in the Temple bulletin, in the annual report, and receive additional High Holy Days Cards of Admission. Our Sustaining Members are vital to our continuing success. To become a Sustaining Member please contact Rebecca Frazin, at the Temple office or by email at RFrazin@chicagosinai.org.

CALL FOR GREETERS

Please consider volunteering to join us as a greeter for one or more of this year's High Holy Days services. One of the best things about Sinai is that it is a warm, welcoming place, "A House of Prayer For All People." During the High Holy Days greeters contribute to that warm and welcoming feeling. Also, greeting is a great way to meet people and to be a contributor to the success of our High Holy Days. To volunteer please email Rebecca Frazin at rfrazin@chicagosinai.org.

CLASSICAL MUSIC RECITAL AND MEDITATION

As has been our tradition for several years, a program of meditative classical music for violin, viola and piano will be presented on Yom Kippur afternoon, Wednesday, September 19 at 2:30 pm at Sinai. This year we are again delighted to welcome Qing Hou, violinist with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, and her husband, Lawrence Neuman, violist with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

A native of China, Qing Hou came to the United States as a full scholarship student of Sylvia Rosenberg at the Peabody Conservatory, where she earned a Bachelor of Music degree. Hou then studied with James Buswell at the New England Conservatory, receiving a Master of Music degree in 1994. In 1997 Daniel Barenboim appointed her to the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Lawrence Neuman has been a member of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra since 1991. Before coming to Chicago, he was violist with the Miami String Quartet. He has performed as soloist with the National Repertory Orchestra, the National Orchestra of Costa Rica, the Kammergild Chamber Orchestra, and the Eastman-Dryden Orchestra. As a chamber musician he is heard frequently throughout the Chicago area and has performed across the United States and Europe.

COMMUNITY CONCERNS

Throughout its history, Chicago Sinai Congregation and its leaders have embraced a commitment to participate in the betterment of the community and social action on behalf of the poor, the deserted, the oppressed and the hungry. From its abolitionist founders to the advocacy of gay, lesbian, and women's rights today, Sinai members have made their voices heard and their efforts count as champions of unpopular causes. In an effort to ensure that donations to our community partners create the most effective outcomes, the Community Concerns Committee will align donations with the priorities of poverty/education, environment and seniors/health care with the intent to create long term, meaningful partnerships.

The Sinai Community Concerns Fund makes contributions to organizations in our neighborhood, as well as nationally and internationally. Last year, donations were made to:

INTERNATIONAL: New Israel Fund, American Jewish World Service and Tambov.

NATIONAL: American Jewish Committee, Religious Action Center and Southern Poverty Law Center.

STATE: Illinois Council Against Handguns, Planned Parenthood and Jewish Vocational Services.

JEWISH COMMUNITY: The Ark and Shalva.

LOCAL GRASSROOTS: Career Transitions Center of Chicago, Greater Chicago Food Depository, Goldie's Place, Faith in Place, Lakeview Pantry, Chicago Coalition for the Homeless and CityPak.

SINAI'S PROJECTS: Hirsch High school, United Power, Mental Health Initiative, Sinai Schools Initiative, Blessings in a Backpack, Homeless Program, SAB Nourish-Thanksgiving, Fourth Presbyterian Food Program, National Rebuilding Day, Ronald McDonald House, Mitzvah Weekend and Sinai Confirmation Class.

We urge you to contribute generously. Envelopes will be mailed with your Cards of Admission and will be available at all services during the High Holy Days. Payment can be made by check, cash or online with a credit card.

FOOD DRIVE

This year your help is urgently needed to provide food for the hungry in our community. The weak economy and cutbacks in the food supplied by the government's emergency food programs have emptied the shelves of the local pantries.

- Canned goods, including soups, meats, vegetables

HIGH HOLY DAYS MUSIC

Re-Creating the Lightning: Max Janowski's Avinu Malkeynu

Scott Kumer, Music Director

OVINU MALKENU 3
DEDICATED TO RABBI JACOB J. WEINSTEIN MAX JANOWSKI

Moderato espressivo
Solo p 3

O - vi - nu mal - ke - nu sh'ma - ko - le - nu o - vi - nu mal -

“The process of composition is like this: lightning strikes, and out of the debris left behind, you try to re-create the lightning,” said Max Janowski (1912-1991), the prodigious Jewish liturgical composer whose hundreds of compositions have been performed in synagogues, churches, colleges, and concert halls throughout the world.

And so it was with the dramatic genesis of Janowski’s famous Avinu Malkeynu. Herb Hymen, a longtime Chicago Sinai member of blessed memory, once corresponded with me, “The piece was written very quickly when Max, getting a sudden inspiration while sitting with Jacob Weinstein, the Rabbi, and Bea Horwich, were around Jacob’s kitchen table.” Kurt Hansen, Janowski’s favorite cantorial soloist for twenty years, corroborates this now-legendary account. Avinu Malkeynu consequently was dedicated to Rabbi Jacob Weinstein and vocally showcased Janowski’s friend and collaborator, Bea Horwich, who possessed a most beautiful and universally admired mezzo voice.

Commercially recorded by artists such as Jan Peerce and Barbra Streisand, Janowski’s Avinu Malkeynu has had a fascinating history of nearly seventy years! It was originally conceived in Ashkenazic with text from the Union Prayer Book II, and was published in 1950 by the Halevi Choral Society (see image). In 1967 it underwent an adaptation by the composer to Sephardic with some subtle harmonic and rhythmic changes to suit the inherent differences in syllabic stresses between the two schools of transliteration. Then in 1989 it underwent largely unsuccessful transformations – two years before Janowski’s death and at the request of Rabbi Simeon Maslin – in order to incorporate revised texts which had been issued in the machzor, Gates of Repentance, published in 1973 (and since superseded by Mishkan HaNefesh, published in 2015).

Janowski only very reluctantly acceded to Rabbi Maslin’s request to make these latter transformations, which ultimately were not part of the “debris left behind” from that generative “lightning strike” which zapped Rabbi Weinstein’s kitchen table. Accommodating the revised texts from Gates of Repentance effectively weakened the elegant musical motifs and tight structure of the original, compromising its internal unity and its stirring emotive impact. Fortunately (from an artistic standpoint), these latter versions were neither widely embraced nor adopted. At Chicago Sinai, we continue to sing the earlier version.

Kurt Hansen recently shared with me, “Whether it was honest or feigned, [Max] said he was tired of Avinu Malkeynu, had to do it wherever he went, and would only let us sing it once on Rosh Hashanah and once on Yom Kippur. . . . Max would also use the much older, simple folk-like setting of Avinu Malkeynu during High Holy Days. One year, a congregant complained that Max needed to do the ‘traditional one,’ which meant Max’s composition. [He] got a kick out of telling that story.”

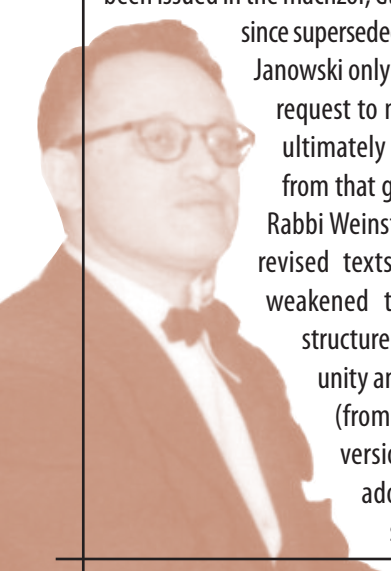

Declaring that “I really received my education from the great masters” (e.g. Bach, Beethoven, Chopin, Liszt), Maxim Dubrow Janowski was born in Berlin on January 29, 1912, emigrated to Tokyo in c. 1930 to become head of the piano department at Musashino Academia Musicae (founded in 1929), and moved to New York City in 1937. In 1938, he arrived in Chicago and became the music director at K.A.M. (later merged with Isaiah Israel). He would remain there for the rest of his life, his tenure interrupted only when, during World War II, he served four years in the Seabees and U.S. Naval Intelligence, making use of his keen intellect and fluency in several languages.

Of his brilliant mind, Herb Hymen recalled that Janowski was an intellectual giant who could outmaneuver anyone in a debate: Janowski would willingly permit his opponent to choose either side, he would take the other, and within a moment would back his opponent into a corner. A master at the game of chess, he was known to play multiple games concurrently, always triumphing. These anecdotes give us a glimpse into Janowski’s fertile, disciplined mind, and into his philosophy that the education of composers must begin with the study of improvisation in order to explore the possibilities latent in their ideas.

Said Janowski, “If you can’t improvise, you can’t compose. Composition is just crystallized and worked-out improvisation. The main problem in composition isn’t to acquire the musical idea; it is to discover the potentials in that idea. . . . Ideas come [from] anywhere, but you must have the ability to see just where the ideas will go. . . .”

During the “Days of Awe,” when we (re)experience Max Janowski’s iconic, beautiful, and powerful Avinu Malkeynu as sung by our choirs, let us take a moment to remember its remarkable composer, whose divine talent to see just where his ideas could go has enriched Jewish worship for decades, and will inspire generations to come.

Shanah Tovah! In this New Year, may we always strive to re-create the lightning!
